DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Requirement for Election/Restrictions has been withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wilhelm (US 5,085,308) in view of Walker et al. (US 6,267,670).

Claim 1. Wilhelm teaches a method for collecting articles, comprising:

using as point-of-trade a reverse vending machine for receiving empty packaging in the form of bottles and/or cans for beverages having a return value (col. 3, lines 3-7);

Art Unit: 3625

issuing of lottery ticket (col. 2, line 38);

issuing to said person a return value receipt (col. 3, lines 41,42);

However, Wilhelm does not teach reserving a number of lottery tickets or shares in the lottery upon registration of information elements in the database server corresponding to return value (change), and in addition communicating back from the database server to the point-of-trade such reservation together with other information elements.

Walker et al. (Walker) teaches a method for purchasing lottery tickets at a point of sale in exchange for the amount of change due to the customer wherein the POS controller transmits the number of "quick-pick" lottery tickets requested to the lottery data processing system (col. 9, lines 17-23).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Wilhelm to include teach reserving a number of lottery tickets or shares in the lottery upon registration of information elements in the database server corresponding to return value (change), and in addition communicating back from the database server to the point-of-trade such reservation together with other information elements, as disclosed in Walker, because it would advantageously provide the lottery ticket purchaser with a convenient and efficient means of obtaining lottery tickets, as specifically taught by Walker (col. 3, lines 18-20).

Furthermore, Supreme Court Decision in KSR International Co. v. Teleflex Inc. (KSR, 82 USPQ2d at 1396) forecloses the argument that a specific teaching, suggestion, or motivation is required to support a finding of obviousness. See the recent Board decision Ex arte Smith, --USPQ2d--, slip op. at 20, (Bd. Pat. App. & Interf. June 25, 2007).

Further, it is noted that all of the elements of the cited references perform the same function when combined as they do in the prior art. Thus such a combination would have yielded predictable results (see Sakraida, 425 US at 282, 189 USPQ at 453). Since the independent claims only unite old elements with no change in there respective functions the claimed subject matter would have been obvious under KSR, 127 S. Ct at 1741, 82 USPQ2d at 1396.

Claim 4. Walker teaches said method including establishing the communication line via a TCP/IP network (col. 5, lines 30-34).

Claim 5. Walker teaches said method characterized in checking in the database server the identity of the reverse vending machine against an identity-related address register to be able to announce where winning lottery tickets have been issued (col. 7, lines 45-50).

Claim 6. Walker teaches said method characterized in that the serial number or control code of the ticket is unique to the issued lottery ticket (col. 9, lines 17-25).

Claim 7. Walker teaches said method characterized in that the control code is generated non-serially in the database server (col. 7, line 19).

Claim 8. Walker teaches said method characterized in that the information elements are selected from the group consisting of: the identity of the reverse vending machine, the time of the stake the monetary value of the stake, which corresponds to the return value of the returned empty packaging, customer-related identification; a ticket number series, e.g. with start and end number, the serial number or control code of the ticket the monetary value of the stake, the number of tickets, the time of the draw, the deadline for playing the lottery, graphic elements, optional guiding information (Fig. 9).

Claims 2, 3, 27-30 are rejected on the same rationale as set forth above claims 1, 4-8.

System claims 9-26 repeat the subject matter of method claims 1, 4-8 respectively, as a set of apparatus elements rather than a series of steps. As the underlying processes of claims 1, 4-8 have been shown to be fully disclosed by the teachings of Wilhelm and Walker in the above rejections of claims 1, 4-8, it is readily apparent that the system disclosed by Wilhelm and Walker includes the apparatus to perform these functions. As such, these limitations are rejected for the same reasons given above for method claims 1, 4-8, and incorporated herein.
